

The Monkey and the Tetrahedron: Compelling Connections Between Mars, the UFO Dilemma, and the Future of the Human Race, David M. Jinks, Glass Moon Press, 1999, 0966725808, 9780966725803, 473 pages. The Monkey and The Tetrahedron: Compelling Connections Between Mars, the UFO Dilemma and the Future of the Human Race is a comprehensive synthesis of the evidence supporting: -- the existence of extraterrestrial artifacts-- the reality of the "excess energy" phenomenon-- the presence of unusual electromagnetic effects in grain affected by "crop circle" formations-- the existence of Unidentified Flying Objects as a non-trivial phenomenon-- a connection between the human race and an ancient, now "lost" body of knowledge. The Monkey and the Tetrahedron suggests a common thread that may tie these seemingly disparate subjects together, grounding them firmly in the testable scientific realm. With nearly 700 citations and dozens of links to the most reliable, up-to-date internet sources, The Monkey and the Tetrahedron is a virtual encyclopedia of controversial science. Written in non-technical language, The Monkey and the Tetrahedron is 476 pages long and contains 77 illustrations, including official NASA images suggesting that all is not as it seems in the solar system. The Monkey and the Tetrahedron is for anyone curious about life's Big Questions: How did we get here? Who are we? What is our purpose? and Where are we going? It is for anyone interested in the real scientific evidence supporting the search for life in the universe, the existence of virtually unlimited energy sources, and the possibility of a vastly expanded history and purpose for humanity...it is for those interested in changing the world and the way humans view themselves in the universe..
